Historical Background

An Archivist was appointed after the County of Merseyside came into existence in 1974 and the Museum Archives were incorporated. They included valuable maritime archives, acquired in anticipation of the establishment of a Maritime Museum, which finally came to fruition in 1980.

Acquisition Policy

To extend the holdings of the following categories of archives: Archives of the National Museums Liverpool, Maritime and Business Archives associated with the Port of Liverpool in its widest sense, and archives associated with Museum specialisms.

Maritime Archives - Major Collections

Registers of Merchant Ships, 1739 - 1942; records of the Mersey Docks and Harbour Board and its antecedents, c.1735 - to date; Business Records including extensive shipping company and shipping association records; Archive material relating to the slave trade, marine insurance, shipping charities and educational establishments; personal papers of seamen, emigrants and shipping families. For further details see: Guide to the Records of Merseyside Maritime Museum, Vol. I, 1995 & Vol. II, 1998.

Please note that no official passenger or emigrant lists or registers of seamen are held by the Maritime Archives & Library. Advice on the whereabouts of such records as survive, however, is available.

Maritime Archives - Library Holdings

Lloyd's List from 1741; Lloyd's Register of Shipping from 1764; extensive periodical runs; Customs Bills of Entry for Great Britain and Ireland, 1820 - 1939; Research Collections including the Beard Index of sailing ships, the Cochrane Index of steamships, the Liverpool Nautical Research Society collection and the Docklands History Research collections.

Business Archives

BICC plc, cable manufacturers (see Business Archives No. 58, November 1989); Fawcett Engineering; Vulcan Foundry Ltd. (locomotive builders); Meccano Ltd. (mechanical toy manufacturers); records of the Liverpool Warehousing Co., Ltd., and corn, sugar and provision trade associations (all strictly by appointment only).

National Museums Liverpool Specialisms
